It is all about cherishing with profound pride, the sweet memories of CMS Days which are stored in the innermost depth of our minds. Once a CMSians, always remains a CMSian and continues to contribute towards enhaching the brilliant traditions of the Alma Mater through one's conscious efforts. For a general individual CMS is just an institute but for CMSians it is more than that as we also hold the values that the CMS symbolizes very close to our hearts. Through EXPOSE, the Alumni of CMS share with the present younger generation their nostalgic moments which gives them a sense of belonging to their much loved CMS to inculcate that kind of spirit and enthusiasm from the younger generation.

Dear Smti Yashmita,

With immense pleasure, I note the progression of the Centre for Management Studies towards the '12th Alumni Meet'. I am also delighted at the publication of 'Expose' 2016, being published to observe the occasion.

Over the decade, the Centre for Management Studies has provided some of the prominent personalities, leaders, professionals to the nation, particularly to the North-East Region. It is inspiring to see how they have evolved both personally and professionally over the years. Organizing Alumni Meet is a great way to interact with each other, to revive old memories and relive a part of the past.

I am confident that the Alumni Network will enable the centre to strengthen and expand communication both in the region and across the nation, and assist the future generation in fostering a meaningful sense of purpose in their lives.

I heartily convey my best wishes to the editorial board and congratulate all the members associated with it on the successful publication of 'Expose'.

With best regards.

It is with great delight that I write to you as Chairperson, Centre for Management Studies for 2017 edition of Sanmilan scheduled on 18th, 19th and 20th November.

This time the theme of Sanmilan is 'GST: Tax Neutrality and Ease of doing Business in India' and the implementation of GST will create a common market in India and reduce the cascading effect of Tax on the cost of goods and services with its impact on tax structure, tax incidence, tax computation, credit utilization and reporting, leading to a complete overhaul of the current indirect tax system. The biggest benefit is that multiple taxes like Octroi, Central Sales Tax, State Sales Tax, Entry Tax, License Fee etc will no longer be present, as all these will be under the GST. Doing business now will be easier and more comfortable as various hidden taxation will not be present.

Discussion on this edition of Sanmilan will go a long way in fulfilling the dreams of our students to become entrepreneurs which is not only relevant in the present context as well as in the days ahead.

I look forward to meeting many alumni across the country and around the world and to discussing with them the vision, goals and priorities for CMS. I welcome and invite their engagement in this discussion because as an institution, we are committed to management education, entrepreneurship, research excellence to being engaged, to treating each member as an individual, and to embracing diversity in its many forms. We have much work to do and I invite your engagement and support for the initiatives to accomplish our goals.

Best wishes.

It gives me immense pleasure and I would like to thank and acknowledge the team this year in bringing out the Alumni magazine 'EXPOSE' on the occasion of Alumni meet, 2016. Like every year I am happy and elated that the trend continues.

Expose is not just a magazine but portrays rich heritage we share and culture we have in Centre for Management Studies (CMS). With every passing year it is only growing stronger. This is that time of the year when, we remember our journey of being who we are today. Alumni Meet gives us an opportunity to meet old minds and friends.

In the backdrop of sanMILAN, many events, plentiful fun, beautiful cultural programmes and the warmth of friends. I am sure the Alumni Meet, 2016 would be as always a resounding success and an event to be cherished forever.

I take this opportunity to welcome the new members in the Samannay family and wish all the members of Samannay an exciting Alumni Meet, which should further strengthen the bond we share and bonhomie amongst all.

I wish the team EXPOSE a very successful Alumni meet 2016.

CMS DAYS: A WONDERFUL BON -VOYAGE....

ABHINAB MAHANTA

E-mail : abhinab3@gmail.com

Shelley says, "If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?" Like wise, when the month of November comes, no matter how busy we are, where and how we are, but instantly, our mind tends to go down the memory lane to have some fond and loving memories of SanMILAN –the management fest of Dibrugarh University and thereby making us a bit nostalgic having the rendezvous reminiscences of our days at CMS.

It has been four years since we left CMS,but still we have very vivid memories of every bits and pieces that we spent at CMS and all our fun and frolic moments coupled with our rigorous academic schedule. So, when I got the invitation mail for this edition of SanMILAN, I, became nostalgic for a moment as various loving and pleasing memories of CMS Flashed through my mind in a whisker.

CMS was a kind of second home for me, personally.Though, literally, we have been enrolled for the management programme, namely, MBA, but virtually, I, learnt and came to the realization of various important aspects and nuances of life in CMS. Of course, I must confess here that life in CMS was not totally smooth either. One thing is sure that we had to adapt ourselves from a very easy going kind of life to a hectic and rigorous life style in CMS

But there are plenty to cherish. I have witnessed a due platform in CMS to develop various potentialities of students through various forums like "Neuron", "Investors Club"'Movie plex" etc. Even we had one newsletter and an in-house magazine with a wall magazine also. Again Students are always encouraged to feel the true spirits of various events by celebrating auspicious occasions like "World Tourism Day", "Diwali" "Vishwakarma Puja", and many more with pomp and gaiety.

Luckily and fortunately, we got a very encouraging and efficient pool of faculty members. Frankly speaking, I was quite impressed with different and various kind of tactics and presentations of our esteemed faculty members and tried to adapt their teachings and preachings in various walks of life. I am ever grateful to them for providing us the right directions and interpretations on various intricacies of life.

Here, I, would like to retrospect those mesmerizing classes and fantastic interpretations of Dr. Pratim Boruah sir on various marketing myths. He is still lingering long in my memory lane as a gem of a teacher

I have ever met.

CMS without Himadri Barman Sir seems to be incomplete. Sir used to teach us CAM and QT. But I revered him more of a good administrator. Under his constant mentoring and proper tutelage almost everything was done from Varsity Week to the arrangement of SanMilan.

The female trio of Aradhana madam, Suman madam, and Brishni madam were always at their benign nature.They were quite affable and with their constant patronage and munificient offerings, They always blessed us for a better tomorrow.

The rest of the faculties also, namely, Mithun Jagdish Sarma,Arup Goswami, Rakesh Chamua, Rohit Sarmah sir were also equally supportive.

Most importantly, I ,found that conducive environment, supportive atmosphere and all-round activities in CMS and it definitely added a kind of spark to our flame for hunger and perhaps it goes a long way in establishing ourselves in a society here "Survival of the Fittest "is the need of the hour.

If "Charity Begins at home ", for us CMS was that home where we began to undergo a transition from a restless guy to a professional who adores discipline and dedication to its utmost value.

So, being an alumni, we are privileged to get many valuable teachings and inputs from CMS.Now,I,think it is our time to give back to our alma-mater.As an alumni we should always be united and should think of doing every welfare activities to CMS fraternity. Though, almost all of us are in busy schedule ,but inspite of this, we should think and take initiatives and join hands in extending help to current batches of students from CMS to have their strong foothold on volatile corporate life. Fortunately, it seems we are in right track as we have a strong and vibrant alumni association within us and many of us have already become a lifetime member of it. We keep our finger crossed that in course of time CMS Alumni cell will go a long way in mentoring and patronizing our beloved brothers and sisters.

And what to say to my juniors. From my slices of memory and vivid experiences, I would just like to reiterate the fact that CMS has always been a fertile ground to mould your personality, foster your professional acumen and building your individual identity.So, enjoy your stay at CMS to the fullest and thereby giving a big stride and leap to the horizon of potentiality and meet Excellency and be a champion in various walks of life in the true sense of the term.

With Best Wishes From

''Shadows of fallacies faded away ,leaving behind trail of smog....

Dipped in venom bitter sweet haunting me to a perfect solitude.....''

Sitting on my office desk I was just wondering about the beautiful reminiscence of two years journey in CMS. Life gives us enough reasons to celebrate but the best reason for me was definitely CMS. I grew up as a better individual and of course a better human being. Today I realise the words of Aradhana Madam when she boldly gave importance on the words of 'Being Professional'. Earlier we complained about the one hour class. Looking into the clock we were just thinking what to have today in Lunch. But life is not much easier when we land into the corporate world. We are accountable for every particular decision that we make. We should be scrupulously honest in all dealings and maintain a very congenial working relationship with all. Moreover, we are responsible for upholding the working standard and be punctual in every possible manner. So we should try to incorporate these qualities from the beginning. One more thing that professional life teaches us is to be patient. It helps us in dealing with adverse situations which quite often we come across in professional and personal life.Patience helps us take better decisions during critical times.

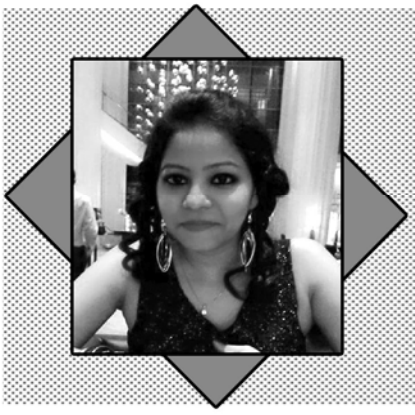

So make the best use of these two years and you will definitely come out with flying colours. It's really a matter of luck that we all were blessed with such wonderful Faculties. The guidance and the moral support that we students get from them is worth-praising. We could approach them for often small reasons. I was anchor on innumerable functions that were organised by CMS,it really boosted my confidence level. I still miss the microphone, podium and anxious to go public.

The way in which I grew up and found out who really I am couldn't have been accomplished credibly without the journey of CMS. I am missing everything about varsity days, SanMILAN, celebrations, hang outs etc. The serenity of walking in the Nahor Campus, having coffee in the Nescafe, enjoying functions in the Rang ghar all have become a mere story now.

Took away lot of good words, sentence, paragraphs and lessons on building a true holistic personality.

Thank you CMS for everything!

Hi All,

I would like to congratulate and appreciate all of you for doing such a fantastic work every year.

My heartiest thanks to all the CMS faculty members for their consistent support and encouragement to help me become a better individual in life.

My journey with CMS began in the year 2010 which turned out to be one of the most significant years of my life. The two years with the department was like a new venture for me because I belong to a very different background in academics which was difficult to relate with the topics that were taught to us. I was a literature student and was very skeptical of doing well and justice with my career when I opted for MBA with HR and Marketing as my specialization subjects. I had been through times wherein I felt like giving up as I was unable to cope up much. There were times during the first semester when I could hardly understand what was taught in the classes. Gradually things started to change and I began enjoying classes. Every class I attended from then on was kind of motivation each day to do something remarkable ahead in life and make my department and faculties proud. I was an average scorer but made every attempt to do well in all subjects and semesters. In the year 2012 I passed out with flying colours and moved to Pune for work.

I began my career by working with EXL Services which dealt in different types of Insurance. I worked with clients who has been in the market for almost 200 years and counting. I was a Motor Subrogation Officer with Hartford and had a great time interacting with people all over US, Canada and Puerto – Rico.

Working with Hartford was like an Ocean as the sector has been diversified into different types of Insurances which includes house, motor, health, life, road side assistance and many others. My job was to take care of the Claims which includes reporting the incident to subrogating the amount of the claims. By working with Hartford I realized how things work outside India. The different lifestyle that they follow and may other things.

However, in December 2014, I joined United Parcel Services (UPS) for better opportunities.UPS deals in purely logistics sector and has its business spread throughout the globe and a very tiny part of India in Maharashtra. It is a 109 years old company and Ranks at the 47th position among the Fortune 500Companies.I started working with UPS as an Admin and with excellent performance within a year I was promoted as Senior Admin. Service delivery takes place through Air, Ocean (ship) and Truck (Roadways).

I am the process owner for the Truck (Roadways) services and get all shipment paid on time. I also take care of all payment and shipment queries and have to deal with Vendors and other UPS workers throughout the globe. The company is expanding its network which provides opportunities to grow up in the ladder.

I am also looking forward towards my next big promotion in the next quarter of 2017 and hoping to deliver my best I can.

My achievement credit also goes to my department and faculty members who has always pushed us to go an extra mile to achieve something remarkable. Apart from classes the other activates that are organized in the campus also play a vital role in developing us as a personality. There also additional responsibilities that company provides you which adds an additional advantage in developing yourself to the best.

CMS has too provided me opportunities to participate and showcase my potential. I am very happy to tell you that I am an active member of the CSR Committee carried out in UPS (Pune). Apart from that I am also the lead of my department for the Employee Engagement Survey. I drive people to participate and showcase their talents. I have also been working as a spokesperson for Fun activity at work and have hosted shows for UPS at International level.

I am very proud to be a part of CMSDU because the truing point of my life began at CMS.

I would also like to thank all of you for providing me an opportunity to convey my thoughts and experiences to you all. I would be pleased to see you all doing good and growing up in the ladder.

Please do not restrict yourself and come out of the comfort zone. It is only then you see the real world.

Accept the challenge like I did and make CMS proud at every level you can. It's a real battle: "Challenging the challengers".

Thank you

With Best Compliments from ....

MBA(FT) 2014-16 BATCH
Executive Trainee,
Personnel Department
OIL, Duliajan

Firstly, thanks for giving me this opportunity. This beautiful Tale started back in August, 2014. One cozy morning I found myself sitting in classroom with new faces. Not knowing what to expect and obviously what was expected of me. The first day went giving introductions and listening to introductions given by others. It was an interesting batch and I was happy to be aware of the fact that there were many engineers. I have always been weak hearted towards engineers. It was a colorful class with vivid personalities, some serious from the first day and some as I say them were Phukres from the first day and were the same till the last day.

All were very hesitant in the starting but it was not long, there became friends many. Days started scrolling and my experience taught me to survive in CMS. It was a new journey and the question that I often used to ask myself in my initial days was "Aankhon me sapne Liye , CMS hum AA to Gaaye....

Jaane ye MBA aab le jaega kaha..."

Surely, like others I was not sure what was on cards for me in CMS. The first Thing I memorized in CMS was

"MBA is jack of all trades and Master's of none" the one divine BANI. At least I was assured that it is all right if I went on to be a jack at the end. So bothering least I started walking through the proceedings. It became clear to me that our MBA journey has started, once the presentations started. "Ghosh ! I hate presenting. Our first presentation was on Khadi , Business Environment...Now please don't ask how was that..Being an Engineering student the subjects were totally different. The one thing that consoled me and kept me going was that there were many engineers in the batch who were biting their teeth to understand the Principles of Management. Soon I realized that the gun was loaded and the mission was to get the MBA degree luckily by god's mercy and my teacher's blessings I am an MBA now.

As the days passed the classes felt colorful, not able to sort till date what led to the intoxicating effect. Might be the brilliance of my beloved teacher's, Might be the beauties in my class or might be the serenity and beauty of the Centre. I distinctly remember all three as I owe my success in CMS to the. My heart full thanks to you .Without you I would have definitely be a MBA dropout.

The MBA doses were on and soon we were overwhelmed with Assignments, Presentations and what not. Thanks friends for all last moment assignments we completed, The last night projects that we submitted and the exams and the sessionals we wrote. I hope you remember it all. It was real fun .Thanks to all the teams I was part of in the two years. Team work significance was learned, surely by me. How can one forget Sanmilan, the one event I loved to be part of . I missed it dearly.

Lunch Break soon became my favorite time with friends so nice and cheap canteens around. It was fun to chit chat with friends on variety of topics from who paired with whom, the latest movie comments to serious talks on assignments, projects and the discussions on syllabus and the subject matter. Most importantly it gave the energy to survive for the second half of the day. Being a TT player the next sought after destination for me was the common room with the TT table. Thanks to your support , subsequently became the TT champion of DU varsity week. Thanks awesome Krishanu "Hey brother we made it, we won the teams Badminton"....

Being a last bencher it was tough on my part to convince my teachers that I will not create any nuisance. But again " Kya Karu, last bench pe nhi baithu to kuch ata bhi too nhi tha samaj". Thanks to all my teachers who have been role models to me and who have always forgiven and forgotten every misdeed of mine. Each one of you taught me something or the other that has made my sailing smooth.

1st semester passed, 2nd ....3rd arrived. With it came new juniors. I envy my juniors, so happy smiling faces,full of energy and freshness. Hey juniors keep the spirit going. Time passed and the most unwanted 4th semester arrived. The fear of being kicked out of CMS haunted me from dawn to dusk. I kept asking myself if Time can be slowed down. I wanted a permanent tenure in CMS. It's a common psychology among the student fraternity to suddenly find the bonding with CMS once the time to say goodbye advances. But as stands the truth, "Time did fly and I found myself writing the last paper of the last semester thinking and visualizing about the two years that passed. It felt like a dream, my heart heavy as never before. It was a hell of a paper I wrote and lol, it was the one I scored the least.

Thanks and congratulations to the Placement team for the efforts they put. From preparing the lists of eligible candidates to calling up the companies with a request to visit CMS was a real experience. Those nervous moments before placements. Few happy candidates after result declaration and those being consoled for the next interviews was a common scene. It was great work placement coordinators.

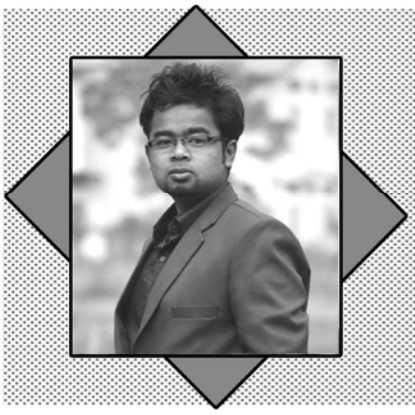

I made mistakes, learned from them and moved on. I wished I could redo my MBA once more. Those were the best days of my life. Miss those nights working to make "Sanmilan" a success, to finding sponsors was really fun.

The aesthetics of CMS have changed over the two years. Have been lucky to have witnessed all this. It would be hard denying that I have undergone a transition from within. I understood MBA was far more then a degree. It made me a better manager and has inculcated confidence to manage things better in Life. I guess all will agree when I state that the key to happiness is "Managing life in the best possible way". I am happy I have achieved the Herculean mission. Mission MBA has been accomplished. Thanks to everyone's love and support. Now the picture was clear as to what was on cards for me in CMS, Being the topper, a great job as a HR professional in OIL, great teachers to learn from and lots of friends to enjoy with.

With so many experiences to share but with many constraints I say Adieu with a firm belief in my heart

"Once a CMSian, always a CMSian''

[Disclaimer : The author of this article is a 26 year old male doing a job in a private bank and he hasn't seen a man of his age contribute their voice to this kind of topic. This is where he would like to provide his own humble opinion or in other words you can say some quotes that he came across. There's a saying like " Be a philosopher but before that get rich first.. No one listens to a poor philosopher ". Hence following article is just some quotes, not his advice. You don't have to listen to them.]

Q: Are you worried?

-> Yes, I am

Q: Worried about what?

-> I'm worried about everything, I'm worried about my career, I'm worried about my job, I'm worried about my my family, my financial status, my girlfriend, my future etc etc..

Q: Well can you do something to solve your worries then?

-> Yes I can

Or

-> No, I can't.

A diagram for you then

* If you have done the very best you can, worrying won't make it any better.

* Everybody has gone through something that has changed them in a way that they could never go back to the person they once were.

* Relationships are like electric currents. Wrong connection will give you shock throughout your life. But the right one will light up your life. Treat your relationship like your salary, don't tell people, don't ask people.

* You gotta let go of that stuff from past, because it just doesn't matter and you are not going that way. The only thing that matters is what you choose to be now.
* Never let the same person waste your time twice. IF THEY TREAT YOU LIKE AN OPTION, MAKE THEM YOUR HISTORY. Always wrong persons teach the right lessons of life.
* Instead make career and your job your top most priority because they won't wake up one morning and say " I don't love you anymore "
* If you feel like you deserve better, it is because you do.

One of my friend from Lakhimpur, whenever I used to chat with him, he had only one thing to say " Life is becoming very boring.. I don't like my job..I'm bored like all the time....". Man seriously?? ' I'm bored ' is a useless thing to say. I mean you live in a great, big, vast world that you have seen none percent of it. Even the inside of your own mind is endless; it goes on forever, inwardly do you understand? The fact that you are alive is amazing. So you don't get to say "I'm bored".

Some things that we can do-

Be present, make love, make tea, avoid small talk, embrace conversation, buy a plant, water it. Make your bed. Have a smart mouth and quick wit. Run. Read. Sing. Swim in the river, enjoy the rain. Make mistakes. Know your worth. Love fiercely. Forgive quickly. Let go what doesn't make you happy.

KNOCKING MEMORIES!

PLABAN SHARMA
MBA(FT) 2014-16 BATCH
Bharti Airtel Ltd, India.
E-mail : plaban.rps@gmail.com

It was something in a domain of broad-spectrum, I picked up an odd but I really wanted it to be a grand success of all time. The odd is to manage an event, The Sanmilan 2015 edition of the India's eastern most B-school, Centre for Management Studies, Dibrugarh University. Just holding on the priorities, we were like, grinding on our own plate. Priorities were indispensable and we mainly focused sponsorships, invitation and managing the entire event!

Some priorities were totally tied up like anything, specially the fund from all the sponsors. Knocking every possible door but responses are far better than expected, both monetary and non-monetary benefits were gained. Wherein the team worked across different boundaries for different platform, some went on for invitations and some for sponsors and between these two, the intersection of entire function of the Venn was few of us, they worked for both. We were like holding each others hands tightly to close loop. All between these messed up, our team add up two more events into the previous edition's ten events, we named them as, EMPRESA-the business plan and CLICKE-the photography event respectively. Lately, it was resulted to be a grand success, Thanks to the entire team!

Ultimately the team effort was moved for a grand success after being able to pick up sponsorships. Our major sponsors were Oil India, AGCL, Assam Oil, NRL, ONGC, India Post, KTM, The Eclectic, PRAG NEWS, FIAT, TATA Motors, Network Travels etc. We all went through tough times and it was the time to execute, participants from across the Eastern India, the renowned guests and the distinguished audiences chock-full the auditorium. All in formals and anticipation can be seen in the news channel screen, THE PRAG NEWS.

Three days went and covered 12 events and more than 100 participants across the Eastern India and cash prizes won were more than 75000+ INR, trophies, certificates, fame and much more.Hopefully all done well with the Sanmilan phase, then the entire batch was forced to translocate their focus for their final positioning, the PLACEMENT!

The three day SANMILAN was full of selfi attempts, DSLR shoots, photo sessions and what not, to get a profile pic to upload in the social network. All we learnt was, just don't go with the flow but enjoy the University days because we were in the last year of our student life. Option were just enjoyment and so we called, Lets party!

Phases were just amazing in MBA, starting from when we joined, when we attended various seminars, celebrated cultural events, organized various events throughout, published magazines/newsletter, enjoyed the Varsity week and what not we touched, I hardly remember!

We were in a batch where many legacy and records were broken and we were being pointed as one of the memorable batch of CMS, DU forever, I guess! But I do really miss those days in University and someday or somewhere I want to scratch some ink on some page to publish what I actually enjoyed.

The transition between the education life and the Job life is what can be at the other point of horizon. At this point of time, I being a Bharti Airtel employee managing a territory where life has turned into saga of endless activities! Somewhere in this life I am waiting for changes to happen, but what I am actually realizing is I am going through a regular change every day, wherein Sales, I get a thrill to work every day in a new way to attain my target.

I am really happy to be part of Centre for Management Studies, Dibrugarh University and it gave me many opportunities to build my career in the way I desired. In fact, I have been encouraged by The Dean, The Director many times as for what I have geared up myself to attend two International Conferences at New Delhi in 2015. The first was organized by Indraprastha University, New Delhi and the second was organized by University of Delhi, New Delhi.

So the SANMILAN 2016! The theme to be covered in 2016 edition of SANMILAN is GST. More or less, with the implementation of GST, India moved to 2nd spot in the Global Optimism Index and more or less consumer goods will be somewhat benefited and trade and industry can be planned and improved. And hoping for some good discussion and conclusion to come from the event as well.

Best wishes to the entire organizing team of SANMILAN-2016 edition! Just go for it and grab the success key!

Godspeed. Hit your expertise!

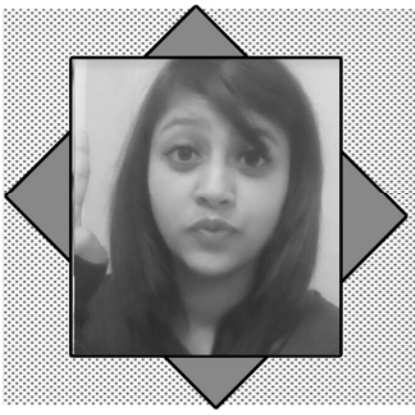

Live green!

With best wishes :

A REFLECTION ON MY SUMMER INTERNSHIP

RESHMI DAS
BBA 2012-15 BATCH
E-mail : reshmidas608@gmail.com

Internships can be extremely valuable experiences for college students. They provide real life work experience, important connections, and, sometimes, even a job offer after Post graduation. Still, internships won't actually help you unless you learn how to use them to your advantage.

I remember the day 16th May 2016, sitting in the office of Administration Department, Field head quarters, Oil India Limited, Duliajan, Assam the same way I remember my first day of college: excited, anxious, but out of place, as if I didn't belong there. To the place I belong people don't often get the opportunity to intern, in a Navratna Company like Oil India Limited. That's actually what drew me to apply for an internship with the company; the opportunity to learn innumerable things.

From the very first day with the Administration Department, Oil India Limited, Duliajan, everyone welcomed me as a member of the team and genuinely expected me to make a contribution.

I hit the ground running, working on a Bungalow Allotment project that illustrated the effectiveness of Bungalow Allotment Procedure of Oil India Limited, Duliajan, Assam.

But the work—meaningful as it was—was only a small part of what made my experience so special. Everyone I met, from the officers of Administration Department to Research & Development officers, as well as the officers of various Departments of Oil India Limited, helped me grow, both as an intern and as a person. My supervisors talked with me about my ambitions, hopes, and struggles regularly, not because they felt obligated, but because they truly cared. Their dedication to their jobs and their fellow employees is something I will never forget.

It was a good learning experience and I learnt a lot about the company and grasped knowledge about the activities performed by the various department of Oil India Limited, Duliajan, Assam. My two months summer internship at Administration Department, Field

Head Quarters, Oil India Limited, Duliajan, Assam has given me a good insight into corporate life, its rules and regulations, etiquettes etc. How to mould oneself into various work environments by adapting to varying managerial styles have been among the biggest lesson I have learned.

My experience at Oil India Limited, Duliajan, Assam has also helped me exercise my time management skills to the fullest while doing my survey, how to communicate and behave as a professional, developing my confidence and knowing the weaknesses that I need to overcome.

The above experience will go a long way in my growth and development as an efficient "Corporate Lady".

MASALA BONDS

SAMUJJWAL CHAKRABORTY
MBA (FT) 2012-14 BATCH
Financial Analyst (Fixed Income)

E-mail : samujjwalchakrabarty@gmail.com

When the term "MASALA" is mentioned...What does come to one's mind..Spices for which India is famous or for that matter Salman Movies or something like South Indian Movies (living in a South Indian City, I have been feed with enough MASALA movies in last two years)..Recent being Kabali which I went to see with a Tamil friend that too Tamil Version!!!!!!

No I am not here for a review of any MASALA movies or something neither do I have any intention of writing Cookery lessons about SPICES .I will just take you through a new Terminology of Financial World "MASALA BONDS" which has created quite a ripple in Indian Financial Market..Word of Caution before reading it though....

The piece is the handiwork of Amateur writer so please bear with me...

Bonds are instruments of debt - typically used by corporates to raise money from investors. Masala bonds have to be explained in the context of Indian corporates raising money from overseas investors. Before masala bonds, corporates have had to rely on avenues such as External commercial borrowings or ECBs. The challenge with the likes of ECBs is the entity raising money is faced with a currency risk - they have to be raised and repaid in dollar terms. A year is a long time in forex markets - currencies fluctuate

So now they put some MASALA on it...I read somewhere that one foreign friend of the writer of some article called and told him ""...They should name these bonds as Chicken Tikka Bonds. It sounds more India"...Jokes apart, Masala bonds are rupee denominated overseas bonds. Masala bonds will help to internationalize the Indian rupee and also deepen the Indian financial system.. In 2013, the first masala bonds were issued by the International Finance Corporation (IFC), an arm of the World Bank. IFC then named them Masala bonds to give a local flavour by calling to mind Indian culture and cuisine.

Lot of advantages for the Indian companies issuing Masala bonds are possible because unlike other bonds, the value of the bond is in INR(Indian Rupees), so they do not have to pay for appreciation of

USD(Dollars) at repayment (Finance Specialization Guys, International Financial Management)

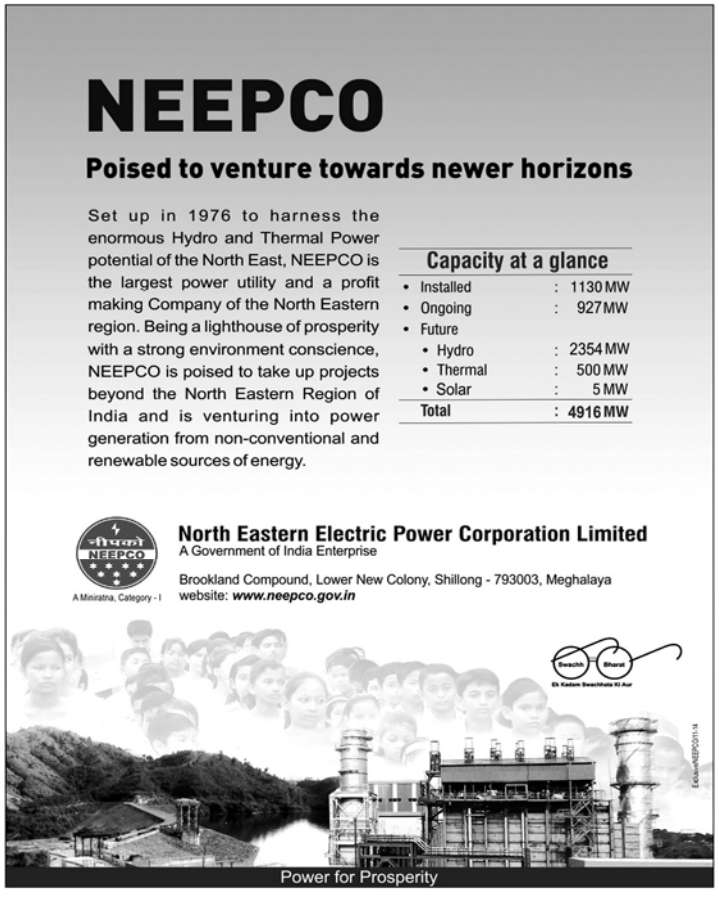

Individuals or fund managers in developed countries find Indian bonds at 7% interest very attractive, but the yield goes down after taxation (Non finance people must be wondering so technical terms yield and all so in layman language, Yield to maturity means the annual return that an investor would receive if he or she held a particular bond until maturity).

The Finance Ministry has cut the withholding tax (a tax deducted at source on residents outside the country) on interest income of such bonds to 5 per cent from 20 per cent, making it attractive for investors. Also, capital gains from rupee appreciation are exempted from tax. Globally, there is ample liquidity thanks to lower interest rates in developed markets, but there are very few investment options due to weak economic conditions globally, India is a rare fast-growing large economy, and masala bonds is one way for investors to take advantage of this

Even though the instrument is in its infancy, the two recent issues by mortgage major HDFC and state-run NTPC will mitigate initial market concerns about liquidity, it said, adding the issuance also helped both the companies get better ratings.

Masala bonds are a good idea to shield corporate balance sheets from exchange rate risks. But they are best used in moderation. The after-effects of too much masala are not pleasant.

But then MASALA BONDS are here to stay in Indian Financial Market….Remember the Name…The name is BOND…MASALA BOND(007 Fan till I die)…..

THOSE 3 YEARS JOURNEY OF CMS

SUJATA BAISHYA
BBA 2013-16 BATCH
Pursuing MBA (FT),
Centre for Management Studies,
Dibrugarh University
Email: sujatabaishya37@gmail.com

After completing my higher secondary board exams, I made my mind to pursue Bachelor in Business Administration (BBA). So, I appeared for the test and interview to get into Centre for Management Studies, Dibrugarh University and finally I got selected.

1ST August 2013 was my first day in CMS. Totally a new environment with new faces. I was bit of nervous as it was the first day of my graduation life. The initial classes went on introductions and as days passed on I got closer with my friends, faculties and seniors. As we were the fresher to the centre, on 13th August 2013, Freshmen Social 2013 was being held. It was totally a new experience and with God's grace I hold the title of "Miss Fresher's 2013". I was on cloud 9, no words to describe my happiness. Though it was a small achievement but for me it meant a lot.

The subjects of the BBA programme were very interesting as it teaches many practical things that we face in our daily lives. It mostly depends upon self-study. We were also to prepare many presentations and assignments which developed our communication skills. My confidence level increased with time and the faculties motivated me in doing so. Our faculties are always ready to help us whenever we were in trouble and that what describes the bond between me and my faculties. They treat us as their own children and family members.

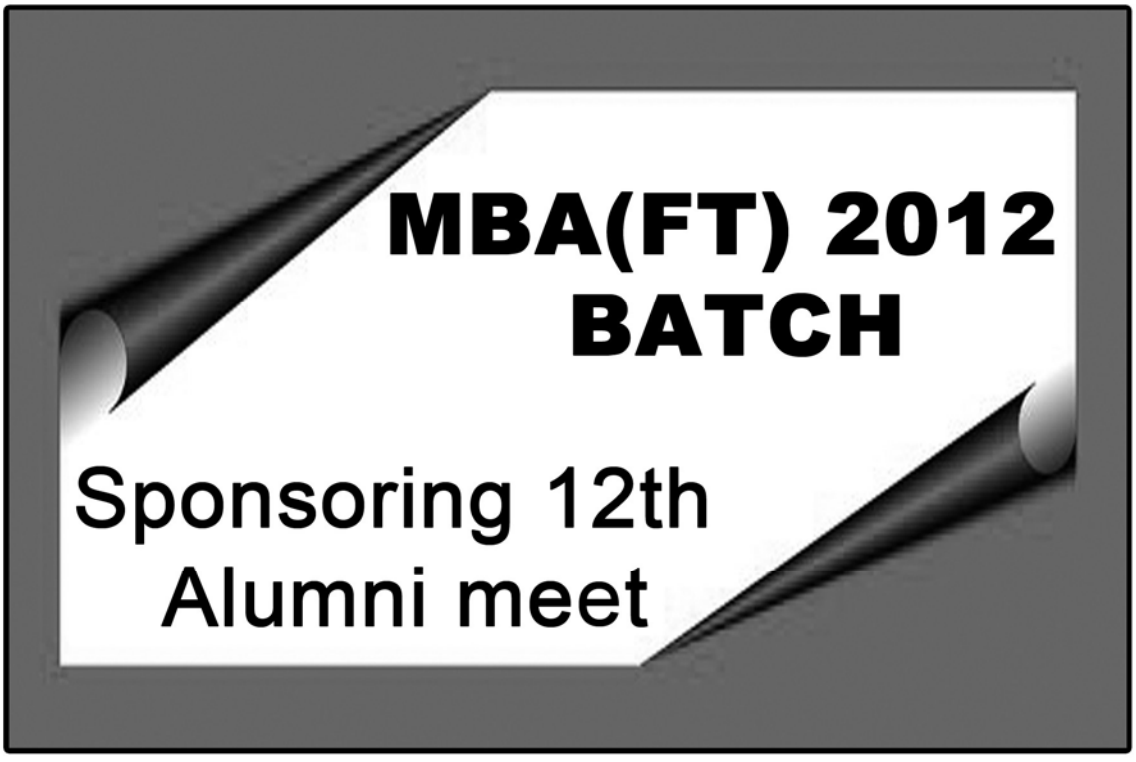

After Durga Puja holidays, we get the smell of the big event of our CMS i.e., SANMILAN-Meetings of Minds. It is quite an interesting and fun event. Where many renowned Corporate delegates join us. It is basically three days long event. Various competition are held, where many participants from different colleges and universities participates. On the last day, the cultural night i.e., the "Autumn Aura" is being held. Lots of fun programmes like dancing, singing, fashion show, drama are performed.

Lastly I would like to say that I came as a student but those 3 years journey in CMS, have taught me many things like communication skills, being confident, motivation, code of conduct, discipline, etc. CMS has always given me the opportunity to explore my talents. Each and every performance or activity that I did here is always been appreciated and this has increased my motivational factor.

I am now pursuing MBA(FT) at CMS. Already 3 years spent and I am looking forward to the coming 2 years. Hope to learn many new things. CMS has become like my family. It will be hard to control my emotions when the time will come to leave CMS. Most importantly, I got to know my weakness and strengths which has helped me to stand on my own feet.

Thank you CMSDU for giving me such beautiful memories. And I wish a very good luck to CMS in the coming days.

'CMS' have all together been an 4 years of experience for me but these years are not just span of time for me , it was a phase from where I evolved and found myself. 4 years as in 3 years in BBA and 1 year in PGDTM. It was the time when I was loaded with lots of moments some not worth mentioning and some not worth forgetting. Awards and praises for the Dramas that we performed and lastly blessed with the title of DU icon in 2016's Varsity week,I couldn't have asked for more.

I thank Yashmita Chetia, Editor Expose for providing me this opportunity to scribble down my memories. Taking this opportunity I would like to express my deep gratitude towards my faculties, friends for their love and support throughout my journey in CMS.

Thanks CMS !!Thanks Dibrugarh University!!
